

Fashion and art advice from someone
f.artin' through life

Let us begin this week with an ever recurring Shower
Darren, to which he said "That is my arse". 🙄
So there you have it.

F. art

Emily here, bringing you another week of ramblings, splodges of paint and superfluous lewks. What can I say? It is a busy time. I've done an expo, workshops and more classes incoming.
I'll be painting in ArtBattle Amsterdam on 6th October. 🙄

Floating, 2024

September Shower Darren, 2024

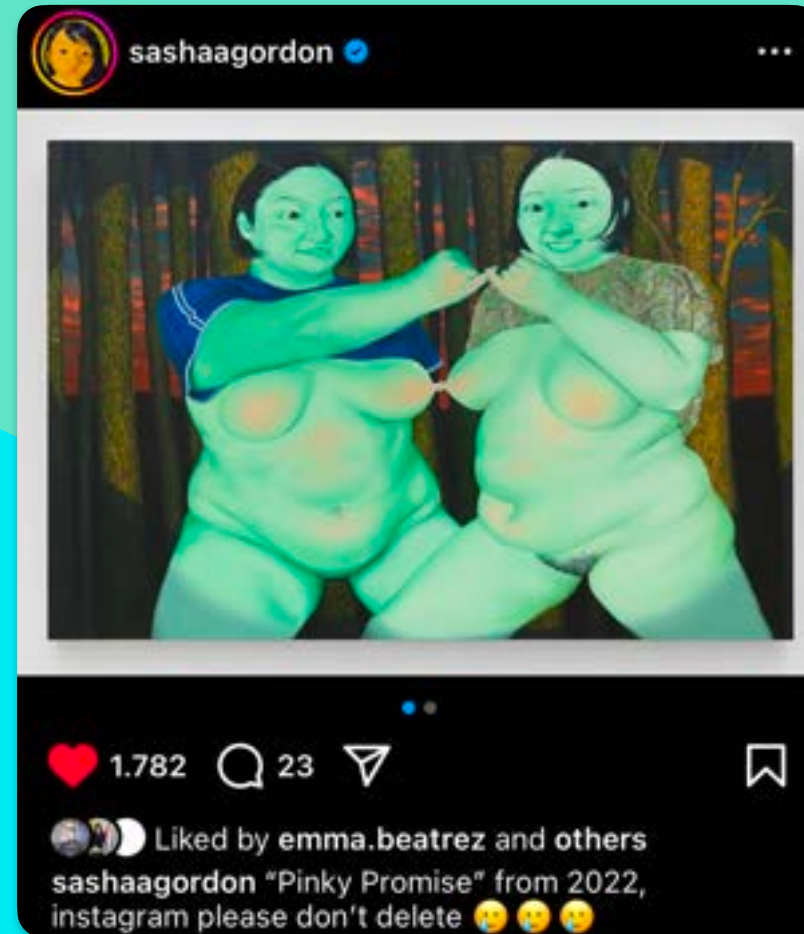

And luckily
there is enough
time leftover to celebrate
birthdays,
weddings and
gorgeous people.
But most importantly
PAINT.

The two green and
black paintings
are some little vignettes I have been working on.
Another series?
Yeah - Why not?

Black Fang, 2024

Advice from my therapist is always to look back to see where you have come from, then you can appreciate that you have grown. So I thought this week I would take you on that journey too, but F.Art style.

Everything I have seen
from the spectacular Sasha Gordon is a symphony of the weird
and the wonderful.
I am here for it!
Thank you Sasha.

VVG INCEPTION:

This is an Emily Shackleton Original pencil drawing (circa 2000?). After Vincent
Van Gogh's painting
"Noon Rest from Work" (1890), which Van Gogh painted
after Jean-Francois
Millet's "Noonday
Rest" (1886).

Clearly the theme for this week is "What the heck is the weather doing?"

As you can see, there is no clear remedy for that.
So I shall go to the ball
bedecked in the mermaid
beaded slinky skirt of my childhood dreams, I shall don all of the prints and if all else fails, there is always my standard
painting uniform...

And what can I recommend
for you?
Dress more outrageously
because life is short and fashion should be fun.

Can you wear that?
Yes you can.

The other day a wise man turned
to me and said
"I love that there's a Gary Oldman and
a Gary Newman"

This weeks song recommendation is Outkast - Rosa Parks
Because Mother says, don't listen to sad music.
:)

Fun Fact: F.Art day is also the same as recycling bin day. So every week before I hit send I have hopefully remembered to take the bin out.
